Start Slaughtering Cattle In Regina Area

Scenes similar to the one above were being enacted near Regina today as R.C.M.P. officers shot cattle infected with the dread foot-and-mouth disease. Two hundred head were scheduled to die today. Picture shows herd of cattle and goats being driven into trenches in California where epidemic of disease occurred several years ago. One of the first herds destroyed today was that of Konstantine Haun, a dairy farmer. Haun pats back of one of his cows as he bids farewell to herd of 40.

'GET TOUGH' CAMPAIGN CHARGED

United Mine Workers Allegedly Ordered Murder Of Two Owners

TON, Va., Feb. 29 (UP)—An ousted United Mine Workers official charged that a personal agent of U.M.W. chief John L. Lewis ordered him to murder two mine operators in a "get tough" organizing campaign.

Charles Minton, former U.M.W. field worker, made the charge in a civil suit filed yesterday in Wise County trial justice court here, asking $350,000 damages from the U.M.W. District 28.

In a statement to the commonwealth attorney, after filing the civil suit, Minton named himself, two U.M.W. officials and three other union members as being involved in the dynamiting of coal tipples at three southwestern Virginia mines.

Minton and the five men were arrested and released on $5,000 bond each pending a preliminary hearing March 28.

Minton claimed in his suit he lost his U.M.W. job because he refused to murder C. P. Fugate and Harry L. Turner, owners of the Gladeville Coal Co., scene of one of the dynamitings.

Lewis and U.M.W. headquarters in Washington had no immediate comment on Minton's charges.

The former field worker stated in his suit he was ordered to meet Tony Boyle, an agent extraordinary of the U.M.W., and a personal representative of Lewis, in Knoxville, Tenn. He said he was told he had been selected to murder the mine owners.

Arrested in the dynamitings in addition to Minton were Allen Condra, acting president of District 28; George Griffiths, the district's secretary-treasurer and former personal secretary to Lewis; M. B. Bloomer, I. G. Stone and E. Lloyd Scoggs, U.M.W. members.

Minton and Bloomer were charged with dynamiting tipples at the Gladeville Coal Co., the Asbury Coal Co. and the Dixie Coal Corp.

'BLACKLISTED'

Another warrant charged the two along with Griffiths and Condra with conspiring to destroy the coal mines, while a third warrant charged Stone and Scoggs with aiding and assisting Minton and Bloomer to escape prosecution.

In his civil suit, Minton charged the U.M.W. had "blacklisted" him and that he is unable to obtain work in a union mine. He said non-union mine operators are "afraid" to hire him.

He said the U.M.W. began an all-out campaign in 1951 to unionize some of the smaller mines in the rich Appalachian coal fields of southwestern Virginia.

Minton said Griffiths told him Lewis was dissatisfied with progress and that they should give the small coal operators "a good taste of the rough stuff."

The suit stated that U.M.W. agent Michael Wideman came to Norton and said Lewis had asked the field workers to "organize these small mines and damn the law suits; we will take care of them."

Minton charged that U.M.W. agent Boyle told him if he would murder the two Gladeville mine owners he would be supplied the finest lawyers available.

He said he refused and thus made an enemy of the union.

Crown Appeals Dreher Trial

CALGARY, Feb. 29 (CP)—The Crown today filed an appeal against the jury acquittal Feb. 21 of Mrs. Gwendolyn Dreher on a charge of murdering Clarence M. Franklin, 28-year-old former fiancé, in her Calgary suite last Nov. 30. The appeal is expected to be heard March 24.

No Carriers On Island

Fears that immigrants from Europe may have carried the disease to Vancouver Island, in the same way the government suspects Willi Bruntjen of doing in Saskatchewan, were held today as unfounded.

"There is one man here from Westphalia, where Bruntjen is suspected to have picked up the virus, but he is a mechanic and has never been on a farm in his life," Immigration Inspector John Dorman said today.

"There have been no farmer-immigrants through here, although some of them did some farm work here last winter," Dorman added. "The men here are all tradesmen."

Wholesale and retail butchers are still "in the dark" regarding the confused meat situation and the possibility of increasing prices.

"It's such a tragedy that I don't believe anyone will try to capitalize on it," one dealer said today. "Actually the demand is not heavy right now, and we can always import from Seattle."

EMPLOYMENT WORRY

In Vancouver the United Packinghouse Workers (C.C.L.) are beginning to worry about employment.

"If the embargo continues a week or 10 days, at least 500 of the 1,500 employees on the lower mainland will be out of work," a union representative said.

The industry in Victoria employs between 50 and 60 workers.

CONTACT WASHINGTON

British Columbia is seeking the advice of Washington, D.C., on the advisability of relaxing the strict ban on movement of meats and livestock into the province.

Top provincial agricultural department officials today are in contact with authorities in the American capital. They are asking about details of the American ban on Canadian meat and cattle.

Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman said he expects to be able to announce a certain easing of restrictions early next week.

B.C. closed its borders to meat and livestock earlier this week because of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease among cattle and hogs in Saskatchewan.

"Washington has had experience in dealing with the disease before, so we are simply going to get the benefit of that experience," said Dr. W. R. Gunn, livestock commissioner.

TOURIST TRADE

The outbreak in Saskatchewan has B.C. cattlemen worried, and they see the province's tourist trade suffering badly.

T. P. Wilson, president of the B.C. Cattle Growers' Association, told the B.C. Natural Resources conference today at the Empress Hotel that there will be no American hunters coming to the province this year.

"The United States has put a ban on all imports of wild animal trophies and game animals," Wilson said. "That means a loss of thousands of dollars to the province."

Wilson appealed to the public to co-operate with authorities in every respect to eliminate the disease.

"It is a sense a national emergency," he said. "It is almost as serious as a war, and should be considered in that light."

NOBODY WANTS N.A.T.O.'s JOB

Pearson, Franks Decline Top Post

LONDON, Feb. 29 (Reuters)—L. B. Pearson, Canadian external affairs minister, has decided not to accept appointment as secretary-general of the new streamlined North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a usually well-informed source said here today.

Sir Oliver Franks, British ambassador to Washington, has already declined the appointment. Pearson had originally been mentioned as a leading candidate for the job, but speculation on the possibility slackened when it was announced that it had been offered to Franks.

KAMLOOPS CATTLE HIT BY OUTBREAK OF MANGE

A stubborn form of cattle mange has broken out at Kamloops.

The federal health of animals division quarantined 450 head of market steers. Only two animals among the 450 are visibly affected but the others are being exposed to the disease.

Dr. F. W. B. Smith, chief of the animal health service in Kamloops, says the affected animals must be held until they have been cleaned up and their hair restored.

He emphasizes that there is no relation between mange and the hoof and mouth disease outbreak near Regina.

COPS CANNOT COPE WITH KIDS' CURFEW

City Police Have Not Equipment Or Staff Enough To Handle Situation, Says Chief

Victoria police have neither the equipment nor the staff to enforce the 9.30 curfew.

REYNAUD MAY BE PREMIER

PARIS, Feb. 29 (CP)—President Vincent Auriol tonight asked ex-Premier Paul Reynaud, 73, to form a government.

France's 19th cabinet since liberation stumbled and fell earlier today and Auriol immediately began his search for the statesman and money which would enable the country to play the big western defense role given her at Lisbon.

Reynaud returned to Paris from London by air today after receiving a telephone call from Auriol. (See story, page 3.)

Commons Hears Appeal For Farmer Aid

OTTAWA, Feb. 29 (BUP)—A Liberal backbencher today urged an immediate investigation of the price structure of Canada's agricultural industry and adoption of steps to stabilize the farmer's position in the economy.

The plea was placed before the Commons by Maj. E. W. George (L. Westmoreland) as he opened the first general state of the nation debate of the new session of Parliament.

George moved a formal address to be presented to Governor-General Vincent Massey thanking him for this throne speech delivered at yesterday's opening of the new session. The motion was seconded by another backbencher, Andre Gauthier (L. Lac St. Jean).

George said that while Canada's economy was rapidly industrial, "agriculture is a very necessary and important part of our economy."

George said the farmer's main concern today, however, was "what he is going to get for the produce he raises."

"He does not know and neither does he know if he can even sell his produce at any price," he said.

OPPOSITE VIEW

Mrs. Ernest Evans, president of the B.C. Parent-Teachers' Association, took a different view.

"Primarily, this is a local matter for the Victoria council," she said.

"I admit, too, the problem of children on the streets at night is first of all a parental responsibility. But we have a wide interest. We have to protect the child whose parents don't care about their staying out late, or children who have no parents."

WOULD CHECK THEATRES

Mrs. Evans knew of no similar complaints by P.T.A.'s in B.C. for enforcement of the curfew. Last agitation of the kind was during the war years, she said. But that did not mean Victoria's position was any different from that of other large centres.

P.T.A.'s suggestion that theatres refuse to allow young people to attend late performances brought from Chief Blackstock: "I think the theatres are refusing admittance unless the youngsters are accompanied by guardians."

QUEBEC PAPER UPPED TO 10c

MONTREAL, Feb. 29 (CP)—Le Devoir, French-language daily, today announced that effective March 3 the price of the paper will be raised from 7 to 10 cents a copy.

The paper said the increase was necessitated by high production costs.

200 Head In One Area Doomed To Slaughter

Regina, Sask., Feb. 29 (BUP)—A ragged volley of rifle shots today signalled the start of a mass slaughter of hundreds of cattle infected with foot-and-mouth disease in southern Saskatchewan.

A detachment of R.C.M.P. constables, wearing rubber boots and huge rubber coats, are shooting the bawling animals as "humanely as possible," according to veterinary officers.

The disease-ridden carcasses are being dumped into a deep mass grave on the farm of Konstantine Haun, one mile from Regina's western outskirts.

Haun's herd of 40 dairy cattle were the first to be shot. A second from a nearby farm was then slaughtered . . . and the mounties are killing other livestock as soon as they arrive at the blood-smeared execution ground from other infected farms in the neighborhood.

Vets say about two hundred livestock in the neighborhood will be killed today.

Meanwhile, in other areas of the quarantine zone, huge graves are being ready for the carcasses of other infected cattle, sheep and swine earmarked for slaughter. A total of some 1300 head of livestock will be killed in the Regina area.

Dr. N. D. Christie, federal veterinary inspector for Saskatchewan, said at noon reports of an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease near Gull Lake, 200 miles west of Regina, have been proved erroneous.

However, he says veterinarians are being switched to the Penant district, about 25 miles northwest of Swift Current, to investigate reports of cattle disease in that area.

Cattle Plague Agent Suspect Now In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Feb. 29 (CP)—Willi Bruntjen, German immigrant suspected of having brought foot-and-mouth disease to Canada, arrived here by plane today and was whisked off to the agriculture department laboratories at adjacent Hull, Que.

He was wearing the same brown suit, he told reporters through an interpreter, which he wore when he worked on the Saskatchewan farm where foot-and-mouth disease broke out.

Bruntjen is not under arrest but is co-operating with authorities in their effort to trace the source of the disease.

Reporters at the airport were kept at a distance as Bruntjen emerged from the plane escorted by an R.C.M.P. constable. Another R.C.M.P. corporal met the plane, along with W. J. Groves, security officer for the agriculture department, and I. R. Stirling, assistant chief of operations of the immigration department.

Vets Search For Disease In Alberta

OTTAWA, Feb. 29 (CP)—Veterinarians are planning to scour southern Alberta for traces of trypanosomiasis.

The agriculture department announced today that ticks and other blood-sucking insects in that area will be investigated to find out whether they are carrying the rare tropical disease.

The decision resulted from an outbreak of the blood-destroying disease—the first such outbreak in Canada—among cattle on the Wallace Heron farm near Thamesford, Ont.

Discovery of the disease was disclosed by the department Thursday and a report from Thamesford said the last of the 45 head of beef cattle on the farm were shot and buried.

Heron purchased the cattle, said the department, in southern Alberta and that is why the new investigation will be launched in that area.

The government is paying for all of the Heron cattle destroyed, said the department.

Dr. Ewing's Unexpected Death Shocks Victoria

Victorians from all walks of life were shocked today to learn of the sudden death Thursday of Dr. John M. Ewing, principal of Victoria College, who suffered a heart attack at his home. He was 63.

The college will be closed all day Saturday as a mark of respect for the late principal.

In his eight years as principal of the college he had become one of the most popular and respected members of the community.

Dr. Ewing was the direct antithesis to the old idea of the college professor. He was brisk and energetic, interested in a wide number of activities, and never stopped learning.

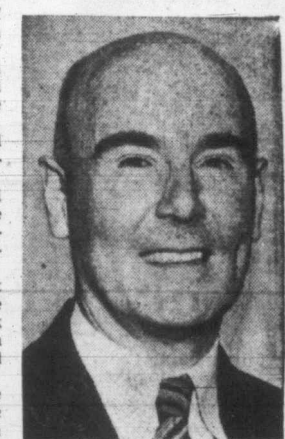

A Liberal of long standing, he was a past president of the Laurier Club, a Mason, and an executive member of many of Victoria's cultural and artistic organizations.

He was widely sought as a speaker, and gave generously of his time to address clubs and societies. Local organizations, in fact, considered it a "feather in the cap" to have Dr. Ewing as guest speaker.

BORN IN PALESTINE

Dr. Ewing was born in Nazareth, Palestine, received his early education at George Watson's College, Edinburgh University, and came to Canada in 1910. He was graduated from Queen's University and won his doctor's degree at the University of Toronto.

He came to Victoria from Vancouver Normal School as an associate professor lecturing in psychology, and collaborated with Dr. D. L. McLaurin in writing a psychology text. He also wrote a book of essays, "Reflections of a Dominie."

DR. J. M. EWING

D. W. H. Hickman, vice-principal of the college, will be in charge temporarily. A further announcement is expected following a meeting of Victoria College Council March 11.

Surviving are his widow, at home, 2119 Oak Bay Avenue; a son, J. W. D. Ewing, West Vancouver; and two sisters, Mrs. L. L. Brighton, Malay States, and Mrs. S. Moody, Scotland.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 11, in St. John's Anglican Church, with Canon George Biddle conducting the service, and interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park, where a Masonic service will be held at the graveside. McCall Brothers have charge. (See Tributes, Page 2)

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Years ago, "Toots" told us the story of Lim. She told it to us at Shawigan where three of us, all young huskies, we thought, were trying to wrestle a huge boulder out of the soil. It was a labor of blood, sweat and tears—blood from barked knuckles, sweat from sheer strain and tears of frustration.

Finally we decided the rock wasn't a boulder at all. We figured it was the top of a submerged mountain and left it there. That's when "Toots" told the story. Lim, she said, was a Chinese gardener working in the Fairfield district. He ran across a big boulder he couldn't budge. The family he was working for pitched in to help him. Still the rock wouldn't move. Finally Lim stood back, surveyed the project and announced: "What we need is two more Chinamen."

That's given us a household word in our family. Whenever we start a job that seems just too tough, something that defies our strength or ingenuity, we stand back and explain: "What we need is two more Chinamen."

If you listen carefully, you might hear it coming from our vegetable garden any day now. The boss of our house thinks this is the time to turn the soil. Our dirt is a little obdurate. It doesn't like being turned. It's baked so hard in some places that you can put the point of your shovel on it, jump with both feet on the top part of the shovel and fall flat on your face as the shovel keels over. When it comes to digging our garden, what we need is two more Chinamen.

Our Soil Is Selective

Now there are some other peculiarities about that soil. It will grow fine crops of dandelions, dock leaves, bluebells, mint and blackberries, wild and domesticated. It produces a pretty fair crop of nettles, too. And the wild rose shoots come up bravely every year.

But there's a tough core of the frontier spirit in that plot. When domestication moves in, the soil turns stubborn. The earth, or clay, doesn't exactly laugh at our efforts, but the way it cracks under the summer sun makes the seams look a little like silent grins.

Take last year. We planted two packages of onions. We like green onions. They give a person distinction. Out of two packets of seeds, we raised half a dozen small onions. We didn't need blasting powder to get them out of the ground, but we think it might be easier to use some explosive if we try to harvest the same crop this year.

Ground like ours, since we can't afford two more Chinamen to work it, discourages people like me. It's so bad it almost convinces me that buying seed is a waste of money. That's unfortunate, not just because it threatens my larder, but because it could deny me food for the spirit—that inspiration that can come only from the bright pictures on the front of seed packages or in garden catalogues.

Just For Esthetic Values

With our ground, I might as well buy the seed packages, admire the pictures and toss the seeds into the ash can.

But the Seeds for Democracy Drive staged by the Committee for a Free Asia can help me there. The Seeds for Democracy people don't want me to bother planting the stuff. They probably know how hard the dirt is in our back lot. All they want me to do is to buy the packages and forward them to Seeds for Democracy, San Francisco 11, California.

Then, they explain, they'll mail them on to the Philippines, and the farmers there will plant them. Maybe I can't afford two more Chinamen, but I have as many Filipinos as I want to dig up their own ground, sow my seeds and reap my vegetables. That way I can enjoy the pictures in the catalogues and the packages to my heart's content, and when I'm tired of looking I can get rid of them in a constructive way.

The government tells me I can't send sweet pea or green pea seeds to San Francisco, but the Committee for a Free Asia—which believes that helping to feed people in the Philippines may hold them for democracy—doesn't want sweet peas, anyhow. It wants Chinese cabbage, green string beans, green pepper, mustard, egg plant, collards, cucumber, carrots, turnips, watermelon, kohlrabi, loose leaf lettuce, tomatoes, spinach and radishes.

It looks to me as if the Committee for a Free Asia has solved my problem for me. Guess I don't need two more Chinamen after all.

Council Supports Mayor In Suppressing Letters

Any letters containing "unfounded reflections" on others will not be read by Mayor Claude Harrison to any city council meeting, unless asked for by the council.

The mayor made this clear at a meeting of council Thursday night.

Council backed him up when he refused, for this reason, to have read a letter from W. A. Scott regarding the Gillies' swindle probe.

He referred also to a letter sent council by J. G. Archer, who recently resigned as assistant city engineer. The latter stated Ad.

Waldo Skillings' voice was "predominantly behind the petty and ridiculous accusations slung at the public works in general and myself in particular."

The mayor took issue with the statements, stating they were incorrect. The whole matter, he said, was handled properly and there were no grounds to so reflect on Skillings.

The Archer letter, he said, contained unfounded statements which reflected on Skillings and the head of another department. "I will not consent to any letter of a defamatory, abusive or false nature being read to this body," he said. "Anyone with complaint must have verification."

BIGGER B.C. DEFENSE POT SHARE URGED

McDonnell Attacks Federal Contracts

A larger slice of federal government defense contracts for British Columbia was urged in the Legislature Thursday by Allan J. McDonnell (P.-C., Vancouver Centre).

Noting that B.C. paid 11 per cent of Canada's total tax revenue, McDonnell said this province's share of general defense contracts in the last few years has only been 6.05 per cent.

He criticized federal authorities who tried to make the picture look rosy, and termed the whole subject, "the raping of the economy of B.C."

"And Premier Johnson has never protested this condition. He never even knew what the Federal government is doing to B.C.," said the member.

"On the insistence of the premier, McDonnell withdrew his remarks about the 'raping of B.C.'" Premier Johnson said he objected to the member's language.

Noting that the B.C. Milk Board recommended earlier this year abolition of all controls above the producer level, McDonnell said he had pleaded with the Legislature to take this same action years ago.

The board also made other recommendations "which would have provided for a more economical method of distribution and brought milk to many citizens at a lower price," he stated.

The Cabinet, he continued, has not acted on the recommendations of the milk board. The consumer is the forgotten man, he claimed.

"The Cabinet hasn't implemented these recommendations and they would save the citizens money. Indecision and shirking of responsibility... that's what it is. The cabinet is always thinking what the political effect may be," stated McDonnell.

The Vancouver Centre member contended Premier Johnson had "political expediency" in mind when deciding what was essential and non-essential business for the present session.

PROTEST BOOST

Older Folk Cannot Walk Seniors Say

Proposed bus fare increases were protested at a recent meeting of the senior citizens' campaign council.

Delegates to the meeting said older people who were unable to walk into town would be affected by an increase. It was also moved that a protest be made to the library board regarding the fact that there are no restrooms for the public in the new library building.

A report on a recent meeting of the local council of women was given by Mrs. Annie McVie.

Centenarian Manager Gives Trade Advice

BATLEY, York, Eng. (CP)—Theodore Tahlor, managing director of a woolen firm, delivered a 20-minute speech at his company's 60th annual meeting.

There was nothing remarkable about it—except that Taylor will be 102 years old in August.

Taylor, one of Yorkshire's best-known businessmen, writes his own speeches.

The older he gets, he said in his speech, the more he appreciates the principle of profit-sharing in industry. He wished everybody in every trade would practise it.

Government, Education Leaders Join City In Tribute To Dr. Ewing

Government leaders and colleagues joined with the rest of Victoria today in paying tribute to Dr. John M. Ewing, principal of Victoria College, who died suddenly Thursday.

"News of the death of Dr. Ewing has come as a great shock to me as well as to the wide circle of friends and associates who held him in such regard," Premier Byron Johnson said.

"He was an inspiration to all those who served in public office. He set an example and expounded a philosophy which inspired many to follow his precepts, and seek to serve their fellow men with the same honesty of purpose and the same unselfish devotion as he did himself."

"As an ex-mayor and ex-chairman of the school board, I know in a first-hand way of Dr. Ewing's great and genuine contribution in the field of education and cultural endeavor, not only in this city, but throughout the province," said Percy E. George, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission. "He was a gentleman and a scholar, and a citizen of outstanding character and ability."

Dr. W. H. Hickman, vice-principal of the college who spoke for the students, said education in the province will suffer a great loss in Dr. Ewing's death.

"The faculty and students at the college are stunned at the loss of their distinguished principal, their respected friend whose smile and advice will be remembered by the thousands he knew and taught," he said.

Dr. Ewing's influence on the young people with whom he came in contact will be a living tribute to his memory, according to R. T. Wallace, associate professor and director of the college evening division.

EVERYTHING HELPS

RAMSGATE, Eng. (CP).—The cassocks belonging to choir members in a local church are becoming shabby, and parishioners will help buy new sets by saving the tinfoil tops that are used on milk bottles here. "The tops are quite valuable," said the vicar.

Condensed from CP, AP, and UP Dispatches

APPOINTED—In London, Nigel Birch, parliamentary under-secretary to the Air Ministry, has been appointed parliamentary secretary to the Defense Ministry. It was learned today.

Birch will thus be deputy to Field Marshal Alexander and will be responsible for answering questions in the House of Commons addressed to the defense minister, Lord Alexander takes over his new job Saturday and will meet his senior officials Monday.

Birch, 46, and a rising Conservative, is known to parliamentarians as a man who takes pains with his speeches. He first made a name for himself politically with his attacks on Hugh Dalton, Socialist chancellor of the exchequer in the first years of the post-war parliament.

PERFECT—In Glasgow the Scots, anxious to show there are no hard feelings about the U.S. 2nd Division incident over a Royal Stewart tartan, have sent to Korea a gift of that mysterious Scottish dish—a haggis.

It is destined for those 2nd Division men who have formed a bagpipe band and chose the exclusive Royal Stewart tartan for their kilts.

A note of advice went with the haggis—"If you can get some Scotch whisky to drink with the haggis, it makes a perfect meal."

SETTLED—In Ottawa Governor-General Vincent Massey settled in stately Rideau Hall today as the first native-born representative of the Crown in Canada while newspaper criticism welled up over his appointment and installation.

Massey, who will live at Government House for most of the year and, if he follows precedent set by former British-born governors-general at the Citadel in Quebec City for several months.

But for the first time since Confederation in 1867, there was no Chatelaine at Rideau Hall, the Queens "court" in Canada. Massey, a widower, is expected to call on his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lionel Massey of Toronto, to act as hostess at state functions.

FIRM—In Munsan Allied truce negotiators told the Communists today that U.N. rejection of Russia as a member of a neutral supervisory commission is "firm, final and irrevocable."

A U.N. spokesman said the Allied statement was the "strongest since last July," when the Reds were warned that armistice negotiations would break down unless they abandoned demands for a cease-fire line on the 38th parallel.

The Communists replied in almost equally strong language to today's statement that "any such attitude of arrogance and arbitrariness will be categorically rejected by our side."

PRAISE—In Washington, Democratic members of the house foreign affairs committee praised Secretary of State Dean Acheson today for giving a powerful shove to European unity at the recent Lisbon conference.

But Republicans said Congress should be given "concrete evidence" that the Europeans mean business about building a strong mutual defense system before voting more billions in U.S. economic and military aid.

Acheson gave the committee a two-hour closed door report Thursday on the recent North Atlantic Pact council sessions in the Portuguese capital.

RESCUED—In Beverly Hills actor Edward G. Robinson, who kicked his son out of the family home for marrying without his consent, came to the rescue today when police jailed the youth for passing a worthless cheque.

The stubby little tough guy actor was performing in a play at the Biltmore Theatre in Los Angeles, when he received word that Edward G. Robinson, Jr., had been locked up on a warrant charging him with issuing a bad cheque for $139.

As soon as the play was over, the senior Robinson rushed out of the theatre, contacted his attorney, Jack Gold, and raced to the Beverly Hills jail.

Young Robinson was there, waiting for his father with his new wife, actress Frances Chisholm. Not long afterward, Robinson junior was released. He left with Miss Chisholm at his side.

BARRED—Eight textbooks and Paul Gallico's "Farewell to Sports" have been barred from New York City school libraries on grounds that the books slur minority racial and religious groups.

The Board of Education announced the action Thursday, with one board member describing Gallico's book as "viciously anti-semitic."

He said one section contended that Jewish athletes excel in basketball because that sport calls for "shifty" tactics rather than brute force. Gallico's book was published in 1938.

The banned textbooks included "Strange Insects and Their Stories" by Hyatt Verrill, which contained "invidious references to the superiority of white ants over black ants."

CARRIED—In Nice, France, the Aga Khan arrived today from India, and was carried off his plane on a stretcher.

His son, Aly Khan, was at the airport to greet the wealthy 74-year-old world leader of the Ismaili Moslem sect. He was told by the Aga Khan's doctor, "Don't worry, your father is much better." The Aga Khan was stricken with a heart attack while visiting India.

Faure's French Govt. Defeated

PARIS, Feb. 29 (AP).—French Premier Edgar Faure lost a pre-dawn vote today on his bill to raise taxes 15 per cent to pay rearmament costs and promptly resigned.

President Vincent Auriol plunged into the tangled maze of French politics in search of a new premier who can dig up the money to pay France's share of rising Atlantic defense costs.

Knife-Making Hobby Yielded Large Profits

KETTLE RIVER, Ont., Dec. 28 (CP).—There's a knife worn and well-used on Matt Mattson's kitchen table in this little village near Fort Frances.

But it's no ordinary knife. With it Mattson carved out a new life for himself.

Matt was down and out in 1938 after a siege of tuberculosis but he refused to remain idle. One evening he took a few simple tools and locked himself in a room. He laboriously chiseled a piece of steel out of an old cross-cut saw and filed it into the shape of a breadknife blade.

Then came hours of polishing, honing, stropping and finishing. Matt fashioned a wooden handle and riveted it to the blade. The job took two days.

Using that first knife as a model, Matt made others which he sold. He saved a few dollars and invested them in better tools and equipment. He was then able to make several knives a day.

During the Second World War, he received orders for fancy trench knives from friends of servicemen. He later started on hunting knives, jackknives and deerhorn steak-knives.

Today, the result of Matt's cutlery hobby is a combination grocery store and service station which he and his wife run outside of Kettle River. But he still spends much of his time making knives.

The National Assembly turned down, 309 to 283, Faure's tax plan after the premier rejected an alternate plan for a one-per-cent sales tax.

He had formed his cabinet on Jan. 20—only 40 days ago. He lost out on the second of 20 votes of confidence he had put before the assembly.

Right wingers, led by the followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle and including 28 members of Faure's own radical Socialist party, tumbled the premier and got the first chance to set up a new government.

A rightist coalition might agree on a new sales tax but would find the harness troublesome on other issues. The Gaullists, for example, strongly oppose the European army plan unless the nations in it federate politically first.

Faure had just returned from the Lisbon meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which endorsed the European army plan and where the United States promised France additional aid of $300,000,000.

Judge Admits 'Bookies' Income Tax As Evidence

VANCOUVER, Feb. 29 (CP).—Mr. Justice Whittaker Wednesday ruled income tax returns of the 26 defendants in the giant bookmaking conspiracy trial admissible as evidence.

He said "the returns must be produced, and may be given as evidence if relevant and otherwise admissible."

The precedent-making move came after a long legal battle between two branches of the crown, the income tax department and the "crown provincial" represented by prosecutors Gordon Scott and Stanley Remnant, Q.C. Counsel for the income tax department, Walter Owen, Q.C., held that the public good was best served by keeping income tax returns in strict privacy.

However, the prosecutors argued this was a "criminal case" of great importance.

Mr. Justice Whittaker quoted legal authorities to the effect that public interest must be considered paramount before individual interests of parties.

Speech From The Throne

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE at yesterday's opening of the Canadian Parliament contains only three significant indications of government policy. The government regards the problem of inflation as still serious. It intends to maintain its anti-inflationary policies, which were first attacked as useless and now are regarded by some interests as too effective. There is no sign of any relaxation as far as the government is concerned. At a time when wages are spiraling upwards again and will produce their inevitable effect on some prices, the government is wise to set its face against any premature removal of its deflationary fiscal measures.

Secondly, the government commits itself to a redistribution of seats in the House of Commons. It has rejected the advice of some of its prairie followers who are trying to postpone until the next election a reduction in the prairie parliamentary representation and a substantial increase in British Columbia's. In common honesty the government could do nothing else.

It is not indicated whether the complex process of redistribution will be conducted by a committee of the House, as in the past, or by a commission, as proposed by Mr. C. C. Poirer. Whichever method is adopted little time is left to put representation on a true basis of population before the expected poll of 1953.

Finally, the government proposes another annual contribution to the Colombo plan of economic development in the vital and doubtful area of Southeast Asia, including India, where the cold war is more and more centred. The Canadian people, we think, will regard this expenditure as a sound investment in peace.

A long list of intended legislation is mentioned in the speech, most of it minor. The main question which the Canadian people are asking the government is not answered and cannot be answered until the budget is introduced in April. Are taxes to be reduced, raised or left where they are? That is what the public wants to hear.

Perhaps the public's question about taxes has been tacitly answered already by Mr. Abbott, whose latest figures on revenues and expenditures do not suggest that the government can hope to make any general tax reduction, though it may well alter some individual levies. The emphasis upon the Speech from the Throne places upon the necessity of still larger rearmament, the reference to continued inflation and the dark view which the government takes of world events all suggest little relief to the taxpayer.

At this point the sessional program, though large in its legislative content, does not seem to introduce any big issue into national politics. This is an off-year in the political cycle, with most of the government's policies of the last election already in force and no new election immediately ahead.

But it is too early to say that these will be quiet times in Parliament. Politics works by an inculcable process of chemistry and has a habit of generating issues without advance notice. It will be surprising if Parliament does not find itself locked in sharp debate between the parties before midsummer.

Since the government's policies are largely known and are not being changed basically, the public will await with interest the appearance of a clear line of policy in the Conservative opposition. No such line emerged at the two sessions of 1951 when the Conservatives began the year by demanding price controls and calling the government's fiscal weapons blunt and useless, but by autumn were voting against price controls and calling those weapons far too sharp.

From Mr. Drew's recent speeches it would seem that his party is returning by slow stages and under new slogans to its historic base of high tariffs, protection of industry from foreign competition and a maximum of national self-containment. That would be a natural development in the Conservative party, which has had no solid base since the convention of 1948. This session will be significant, without any change in government policy, if it begins to align the parties on what could be the major issue of the next election.

A Great Loss To Victoria

FEW MEN IN THIS COMMUNITY have enjoyed the confidence, friendship and respect accorded to Dr. John M. Ewing. His was a personality and character that invited such responses from the countless people he met both as principal of Victoria College and as a citizen deeply interested in public and community affairs.

Because he had been known to so many as the embodiment of boundless vitality, the announcement of his death has come with tragic suddenness. Until his physician's recent warning, it had not occurred to many of his friends that Dr. Ewing could be anything but a man of mature and disciplined mind, highly talented, high in health and possessing a youthful zest for living that cloaked his more serious nature.

Dr. Ewing was the third permanent principal of Victoria College. He assumed that post following the interregnum of the late Prof. E. S. Farr, who had guided the college following the death of Prof. P. E. Elliott, the successor of the original principal and founding father, Dr. E. B. Paul.

During Dr. Ewing's time, Victoria College, swollen by the influx of ex-service students, reached its highest peak of enrolment. And during his principality, the institution had changed quarters, leaving Craigdarroch to share accommodation in the Normal School building. Those were not easy years for the leader of this community's highest educational faculty. To his diplomacy and tact may be attributed much of the success with which the college met the challenges of the time.

One of the most gifted of Victoria's public speakers and a tireless worker in many organizations, he spent his energies willingly for the city he had made his home.

The measure of appreciation for his contribution to this community, educationally and otherwise, and the friendships he had earned may be seen today in the profound sense of loss so widely felt.

Let's Look At The Mortgage

CITY MANAGER CECIL WYATT, in the dignified language of his office, has said one important thing to Mr. and Mrs. Victoria. His advice can be paraphrased simply. He says, in effect, "For the last eight years or so, you've been doing a lot of house improvement work. Now let's look at the bill."

The bill shows that city debt, which would have fallen to $10,353,000 under the original plan, has gone up to $14,098,000 as a result of Victoria's borrowings. Those loans, incidentally, amount to 75.15 per cent of the city's ability to borrow, and municipalities usually stop at 75 per cent.

So, says Mr. Wyatt—and again this is paraphrase—it's time Victoria stopped.

The city still needs capital improvements—or at least the city could benefit from many more improvements. Mr. Wyatt says this isn't the time to make them.

Victoria, in other words, has been advised to pull in its horns while it is still solvent.

The city manager might have pointed out to Mr. and Mrs. Victoria that a dollar borrowed now will cost roughly two dollars to repay, when interest and debt charges are taken into consideration. He might have noted, too, that if the purchasing value of a dollar returns to pre-war levels before present debts are paid off, that two dollar repayment will be made for 50 cents' worth of work or services.

The city has faced the relative austerity of a pay-as-you-go policy before. It was in operation during the depression and carried on until 1944, when the first arena loan was floated. Since then, despite refunding plans, the debt has grown. That was unavoidable. The city's physical assets, its streets among them, were falling into decay. Its failure to build schools left insufficient facilities for a new and larger generation of students. Providing schools and streets costs money. Now Mr. Wyatt asks the citizens to look at the mortgage and to avoid increasing its size.

At the same time, he makes certain suggestions which could improve the efficiency of community services. He proposes, among other things, consolidation of Greater Victoria police and fire departments, which may not save money but would probably furnish better protection for the entire region.

He outlines approaches that may be made to revenue-producing sources—the business tax, a larger share of sales tax returns, and compensation for government-owned tax-exempt holdings in the city.

Mr. Wyatt appears to have done his home-work. His report deserves careful study.

The Cost Of Embargoes

NO ONE WE IMAGINE UNDER-estimates the present disaster to Canadian agriculture. The outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan not only imperils the beef and dairy herds of the nation but already it has destroyed, for the time being, our huge beef market in the United States, one of our largest single sources of American dollars. A few germs, somehow imported into the prairies, have damaged the whole national economy. Man, as usual, is at the mercy of strange, invisible forces which he seldom foresees.

When all the dangers of this epidemic are considered it is to be hoped that the embargo on the movement of meats within Canada will be removed at the earliest possible moment. We cannot compel the United States to buy our beef but, as Mr. Gardiner says, we should not encourage the American embargo by exaggerating our own problem. In such a case the opinion of the layman counts for little. We must trust the scientists of the federal and provincial governments to decide where it will be safe to let cattle and meat move across inter-provincial boundaries.

The present restrictions on these products illustrate a much larger economic process. When cattle and meat cannot move from one province to another everyone agrees that the nation is impoverished—the farmer in the first place, the consumer in the second. Yet at the very time when everyone protests against such barriers strong efforts are being made by some interests to increase them in other fields of commerce.

Mr. Gardiner himself, now objecting to the cattle embargo, persuaded Parliament last year to provide for a strict federal embargo on margarine moving into provinces which prohibit its sale. That measure, which has not yet been applied, could not begin to equal the damage of the cattle embargo but economically it is the same sort of thing.

So are all embargoes and restrictions on international trade since they impoverish those who impose them and those who are restricted by them. It has always been difficult to persuade people of that simple fact. The illusion that a nation grows richer by keeping out foreign goods, by reducing its actual wealth, dies hard. The unfortunate cattle embargo may do some good if it teaches the farmers and the consumers of Canada that when trade is interrupted everybody, except a few privileged beneficiaries, is bound to suffer.

LOOSE ENDS

Nobody Listens

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

IT IS ALWAYS good to get back to Victoria. Particularly good to climb out of the snowdrifts of Ottawa and the warm greenhouse damp of Washington and find the snowdrops and crocuses abloom beside the Straits.

But an old hand, like this battered reporter, does not return from an expedition to the centre of things like a traveler bringing news. He slinks home furtively, digs himself into the native earth, refuses to answer the telephone and avoids his friends until he has been purged of the eastern evil, until all traces of intellectual foot-and-mouth disease have been disinfected.

IF A TOWNSMAN from this or any other place is in the business of writing pieces for the newspaper, if his name appears occasionally in print, if he can remark casually that he has been talking to great men at the world's capital—if, in short, he seems to be bringing home the inside story of events when he has only been lounging in a few Washington bars or has seen Mr. St. Laurent crossing Wellington Street, then a great deal is expected of him on his return. He is expected to do the impossible.

Now it is not impossible even for the most casual observer to find out things in the east which do not get into the newspapers, to bring home information which would be valuable to anyone interested in the world. That is not impossible. It is easy.

THE IMPOSSIBILITY arises when one's friends expect to hear all these things without listening. For the fact, of course, is that hardly anybody wants to listen to anything. This town or any other town, is not interested in the world. It is interested, quite properly, in itself and it manages to survive by the powerful illusion that it is separated from and can evade the world.

I am all for that, if it can be done. I am much more interested in the sunny, golden faces of my crocuses than in the cold, pinched faces of statescraft in Ottawa or in the roddy, smiling face of President Truman, greatly as I respect the latter. Still, I suspect that we are involved, even on our Island, in those current processes which threaten to destroy civilization. I suspect that, but I don't tell anybody because nobody wishes to know and nobody will thank me for telling him.

A YOUNG REPORTER, I suppose, will come home with a big news story locked in his bosom and attempt to tell it to those who seem eager to hear. When he grows older he will realize that it is the last thing anybody desires to hear. I have a few pieces of miscellaneous information kicking around in my head which I find quite fascinating but I have not revealed them to my closest friends because I value their friendship. It would not stand the strain of communication.

People are polite enough. They are glad, or seem to be, that one has come home safely. With a fine pretence of interest, mess them, they ask what is really happening in the political jungle, but they expect to hear everything painlessly and in not more than thirty seconds. Unfortunately the process of communication, even when you have little to communicate, is not painless and it takes time and some effort, too much for friendship to endure.

HAVING discovered that by long and unhappy experience, the seasoned reporter adopts a kind of convention or set act which serves very well.

The local statesman and thinker stops him on the street and asks him earnestly what he found out in the east. He replies that the situation is very complicated, he notes with a sly wink that things are certainly moving fast, he adds that the whole world picture is fraught with peril and pregnant with possibilities and that the times are out of joint.

The listener listens attentively, for perhaps 20 seconds, he nods wisely and says he agrees with every word and then he hurries on. This saves everybody's time and harms no one.

BY DINT of practice through the years one can gather a fine aura of mystery, one can seem to know much more than he can possibly know, one can even achieve a considerable reputation for wisdom merely by keeping one's mouth shut and contriving a series of meaningless clichés.

Whereas if one were to take the questioner seriously, if one were to buttonhole him on the street and answer his questions, if one were to ram down his throat the information which he has sought, then a friendship would be at an end, and all mystery and reputation also.

PEOPLE don't want to listen to know—that is the first lesson the reporter must learn. At the beginning it is a little hard on the reporter's vanity, I suppose, but he soon outgrows that childish feeling. He is well content to keep his information, if any, to himself, perhaps printing odd bits now and then to earn his pay. If he has any consideration for other people's feelings he will lie down among the crocuses, open his spirit, like them, to the sun and rest in the first vagrant days of spring, assured that the world is rapidly going over the brink of things but that somehow this little patch of flowers will escape.

Not The First

Toronto Globe and Mail

The Scottish Nationalists wish to call the new Sovereign Queen Elizabeth I and not II, because she is the first of that name to reign since England and Scotland were united in 1707. They are very late in raising this question. It should have been brought up by their great-grandfathers, if by any one.

When George IV died in 1830, the new King was the first William to ascend the Throne since the Act of Union. Nevertheless he was known as William IV of the Tweed. Again in 1901 the Prince of Wales who succeeded Queen Victoria was the first Edward to be Sovereign of the United Kingdom. He was known as King Edward VII without protest from the Scots.

Scotsmen are known as logicians, but also as respecters of precedent. When they think it over, they will undoubtedly come to the conclusion that the new Queen is rightfully Queen Elizabeth the Second.

"Where'd They Ever Get That Idea?"

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

THAT former schoolmaster of mine from back east, who telephoned me some months ago and chatted about old times and the strappings he used to give me, has turned up again. He has just won a television set on a Hollywood radio program called "People Are Funny."

There is an interesting point in why radio programs give away television sets, but I am not concerned with that right now. My main concern is that, every time I seem to turn around, a friend of mine is winning something. Now it is my ex-schoolmaster, and I am unable to understand why, after a career of beating up little boys with a strap, he should be so awarded.

I have never beaten up a little boy in my life, and yet I don't see any free television sets coming my way. I have never won anything. And it's not for trying, because you take the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, for instance. I have bought so many Irish Sweepstakes tickets that there must be a hospital some where in Ireland that is now fully endowed by me.

The closest I ever came to winning anything was once on an Atlantic crossing when I held a ticket in a pool as to what time we would actually tie up at the wharf at the end of our voyage.

I'll never forget the thrill when I heard the cry, "Here comes the tug!" and people started pumping me on the back and shouting, "You're a cinch! You're as good as a winner right now! There's nobody within an hour of your time!"

Well, it certainly looked good. Except that the tug didn't stop coming. The stupid thing crashed smack into the side of our ship, and for the next two hours we just sat there with lines over the side, trying to keep the tug from sinking.

Some fellow from Yank won the pool. Even at serious gambling I'm a dud. All my race horses drop dead at the post. I once won $400 at a Blackjack game in a place in Charleston, South Carolina, but later the same evening I was introduced to a dice table and left the place with one American silver dollar, which promptly fell through a hole in my pocket and was lost.

I went into Vancouver the other day and telephoned a friend of mine who manages a radio station. "Look," I said desperately, "if I buy you dinner and send you a case of Little Angel's extra special home brew from the Island, will you fix it so that the man who announces the 'Purple, Yellow and Mauve' program picks my telephone number and asks me who discovered the St. Lawrence River for $1?"

The radio manager was profoundly shocked and offered to give me a dollar out of his own pocket. As I hung up I heard him remark to someone, probably his secretary: "Some of these guys will do anything to get their names mentioned on the air."

So yesterday, when Hamish bet me 10 cents that Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Rt.) and his bride Anastasia would be home soon from their honeymoon, I thought I had a sure thing. After all, the last heard of the Colonel was that he was swimming south from Point Roberts, Wash., to escape Anastasia who was sitting on the international boundary with an elephant-gun ready to shoot him.

This morning, of course, the rowboat was sighted off the San Juan Islands. The Colonel was doing the rowing. You would probably row, too, if there was an elephant-gun pointed at your head.

Well, another dime, another day.

House Divided

There is a movement afoot by a few followers—of the Douglas brand—of Social Credit to throw a spoke in the wheels of the actual Social Credit Party in Alberta.

Considering this Alberta government has been in power for sixteen years and now shows the only province that is paying its debts and reducing its taxes, we think they have a right to any name they choose to adopt.

Whereas these other lofty souls have done nothing but talk, use a welter of incomprehensible words, and seem to have no interest in anything but the millennium, we think they would do better to ally themselves with other kindred groups, such as Jehovah's Witnesses or the Sons of David or is it Douglas?

One of them objected to the Social Credit Party of Alberta on the peculiar grounds that it mixes religion with its politics. Perhaps it would be better if some of the other provinces made religion a basis for its politics, then we might have less corruption.

The Alberta people don't mind a bit how many hymns their politicians sing so long as they continue to reduce the taxes and engender prosperity. To be consistent these Sons of Douglas, should stop eating butter, because the only butter they can buy is the Alberta (Social Credit brand) butter, the other provinces having chased their dairy farmers out of business with too much government interference.

GIFT COMMITTEE

It has been the custom in the past for the women of Canada to offer a gift to the wife of the retiring governor-general as an expression of appreciation.

For that purpose a national committee, which will be known as the Lady Alexander Gift Committee, has been set up in Ottawa.

Mrs. Clarence Wallace is now organizing throughout our province, local collecting agencies, composed of representatives of all women's organizations. The Victoria Lady Alexander Gift Committee was organized on Wednesday.

Donations from these organizations, and also from any individuals who may wish to contribute, for any amount not exceeding five dollars ($5) may be sent to our treasurer, Miss Mary Campbell, 1004 Terrace Avenue, Phone E0118.

SARA SPENCER.

Chairman the Lady Alexander Gift Committee, Victoria.

Does this mean the city manager should be free from criticism? Is Mr. Anscomb free from criticism? How could civic voters, presumably not weap readers, know exactly what the future would hold, in voting for a city manager, a civic expert?

"The mayor's new broom threatens to sweep out the good with the bad," says the editorial.

What good? It's only fair to the city manager, to tell us about the good in a less generalized way.

Ald. Pinfold refuses to withdraw his remark that he thinks the council is wasting time, after hearing the mayor say, "I am trying to get council to do things legally by the agreements you have signed," and being invited by the mayor to withdraw it.

"What is a treaty but a scrap of paper?" said the Kaiser in the First World War.

All honor to Mayor Harrison for his courageous fight to uphold the sanctity of signed legal agreements. Mere scraps of paper?

ILDATHATH.

CATS AND BIRDS

In reply to a letter to the Times of Feb. 20, headed "Predators," I wish to make a plea on behalf of those unwanted cats whose owners get rid of them by turning them out in the woods and leaving them to their fate.

This heartless cruelty must cause extreme suffering to animals which have not been used to living in the wilds and having to provide for themselves. What else can they do to avoid starvation but hunt birds and small animals, for doing which they are classed as predators? Would not human beings do the same? I have heard a clergyman tell of how he was "lost" in the wilderness without food, and upon seeing a white hare he raised his rifle to fire, praying that he might hit (he missed). What worse are cats which have been deprived of food and shelter which kill in order to eat?

I would like to suggest that the S.P.C.A. in their humane education work should strongly emphasize the cruelty of abandoning cats to shift for themselves and urge the owners of unwanted animals, if they cannot find good homes for them, to have them painlessly put to sleep, and thus avoid great hardship for the cats and save the lives of the birds (those which escape the guns of the hunters).

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"THE newspapers," said the Elevator Man, "seem to have a special liking for little robbery stories with an odd twist. Take that one the other day where a woman store detective had her handbag picked while she was standing near a counter watching for shoplifters. Then there was another one about a detective who was robbed of his watch while he was scuffling with a thief."

And some time ago there was an item about a police station that was robbed. There's no end to the examples. And it's hard to tell just what is the point that's being made. Whether they want to stress the hard luck of the law-enforcers who are the victims, or whether there's a half-muffled snicker that the police have been taken again. In either case, it's hardly fair to blame the cops. They can always point out that they're so busy looking after other people's property they have no time to defend their own. Lower main!

"As a matter of fact," said the Elevator Man, "a lot of us are in the same boat, and for a much less worthy reason. We're inclined to pay so much attention to other people's morals, for instance, that we don't keep much of an eye on our own. We see the other fellow's selfishness or meanness, but overlook our own. We see the chance he had to do a good deed, but forget we had the same opportunity. We're concerned about our neighbor losing his righteousness but all the time our own defects are picking our pockets of their moral contents. I guess charity isn't the only thing that should begin at home. A few other virtues should get the same priority. Going up!"

"Of course," said the Elevator Man, "before that can happen we have to train ourselves to recognize faults in ourselves as readily as we see them in others. That may not be as easy as it sounds. It's amazing the attitudes of mind you come across, where self-appraisal is involved. Some of them are as 'reversed' as that tramp's view of labor. 'Have you ever been offered work?' he was asked by the lady of the house. 'Yes, once,' he answered, 'but otherwise I've met with nothing but kindness.'"

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime BY H. T. WEBSTER

"The Last Forty Days"

The Shepherd

JESUS' TOLERANCE

"Bless and curse not."

—Romans 12:14.

As Jesus in The Temple taught . . .

A woman taken in sin was brought . . .

And she was to be stoned to death . . .

But Jesus asked, Who witnesseth? . . .

And called for him to cast a stone . . .

Who had no misdeeds of his own . . .

As before . . . So He said go and sin no more . . .

Are you toward sin adamant . . .

But to The Sinner tolerant?

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE RECORD TO DATE, 1932—155.2 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: Snow had stopped falling in all but the southern Interior this morning and it is expected that it will end shortly in these sections also. However, Interior skies will remain mostly cloudy during the day.
Over the coast skies were mostly clear during the night and considerable sunshine will persist through the day.
Two weather systems are expected to affect B.C. weather in the next day. One is a mild outbreak of cold air which is expected to bring snow flurries and colder temperatures to northern and eastern sections overnight. The other is a Pacific storm which should move down the coast Saturday, causing cloudy skies and some rain.
Temperatures will remain relatively mild on the coast but will be a little colder in the Interior as the polar air filters through the mountains into the valleys.

REGIONAL FORECASTS VALID UNTIL MIDNIGHT SATURDAY
VICTORIA: Mostly clear tonight. Cloudy Saturday with occasional light rain in the evening. Little change in temperature. Winds light. Low tonight and high Saturday. 35 and 45.
WEST COAST: A few clouds tonight becoming cloudy by daybreak. Intermittent rain beginning Saturday afternoon. Low tonight and high Saturday at Site van Point. 32 and 45.
VANCOUVER AND GEORGIA STRAIT: A few clouds tonight. Cloudy Saturday with rain in the evening. Little change in temperature. Winds light. Low tonight and high Saturday at Vancouver Airport and Nanaimo. 32 and 45. Abbotsford. 28 and 45.

TURNER WITHDRAWS REMARKS WISMER FOUND OFFENSIVE
Arthur Turner (C.C.F., Vancouver-East), Thursday withdrew statements made in the Legislature the day before which Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said "challenged my veracity."

During Wednesday night's sitting, Turner said the Attorney-General told the Legislature in 1949 that the Labor Relations Board had advised him against opening up the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act to allow amendments. The Vancouver East member said the L.R.B. recently had denied this to the labor inquiry board.

On Thursday, Wismer read a letter he received from the L.R.B. secretary in March, 1949, which included an excerpt from the board's minutes substantiating the Attorney-General's statement.

CITY'S 'BIG FIVE' SOLID IN SADDLE

Executive Committee Continues Functions Over Worried Protests Of Junior Aldermen

City Council's top level executive committee weathered its first squall Thursday night.

Junior aldermen feared the five-man board, headed by the mayor, might become too powerful, and suggested to city council meeting a cut in numbers in interests of "harmony."

More than 70 spectators, who filled well over half the public benches, listened intently while Mayor Claude Harrison let the aldermen get the matter "off their chests."

"I think we'll give it a trial—see how it gets along," said the mayor. "We'll take it up again later."

"The executive committee could ultimately control the whole council," said Ald. Brent Murdoch, who opened debate, and suggested instead of the mayor and five senior aldermen the committee be halved to the mayor, acting mayor and chairman of finance. Ald. Don Smith felt such a move would give more "harmony in city council than has prevailed in the last two months."

Ald. Waldo Skillings, one of the executive's disaffected and said the committee of five "will work in harmony and try to solve problems in general interest of economy of the city as a whole."

A committee of three could be more hazardous than one of six, he felt.

Ald. Jim Neely supported Murdoch, stating he had always heard about the "Big Five."

"Maybe it will turn out to be a Big Five."

The mayor said one of the chief aims of the committee was to try to save time and provide a committee of the more experienced aldermen, should another committee get struck. He mentioned he was opening the discussion wide "to help harmony in the future."

"Yes, let's get it off our chests," laughed Ald. Murdoch.

Street Lights Cause Debate Among Council

Cluster lamps may not light the path of the weary traveler to any great extent—but there are the tourists to remember.

That was the gist of debate at Thursday's City Council meeting, when by vote of 6-4, aldermen approved conversion of cluster lights to more modern lighting in four areas. They refused it in a fifth and indicated they would like to give further consideration to a proposal for converting two others.

"Cost of maintaining cluster lamps is 48 per cent greater and the new type lighting is 200 per cent more efficient," said Ald. Don Smith, street lighting chairman, who backed the conversion program.

He referred to the saving for taxpayers and said if the mill rate went up the reported five mill boost and kept going up "we'll have lights but no people."

Ald. Waldo Skillings and Ald. Percy Scutrah flatly refused to have lights on Government, between Belleville and Michigan, converted.

"We're just making another American city," said Scutrah. "I've just come from a city catering to tourists, where there are dinky lights in the palm trees—they're romantic but they don't give much light."

Said Ald. Frank Mulliner: "We're getting too sentimental altogether."

Progressive conversion will take place on Pandora from Quadra to Vancouver; Johnson from Quadra to Cook; View from Quadra to Cook, and Vancouver from Fort to Pandora.

Gruber Signed By Orchestra For 5th Year

Hans Gruber has been signed to conduct the Victoria Symphony Orchestra for a fifth concert season.

Announcement of the renewal of his contract as musical director was made by the symphony society's board of directors.

In the 1952-53 season Gruber will conduct the orchestra in another series of eight concerts. The board has decided to make no change in the present arrangement and, at the same time, has ruled against a series of post-season concerts because of the uncertainty of public support in spring and summer months.

A proposal to stage up to four concerts with guest conductors has been shelved owing to the financial hazard involved.

Conductor Gruber has developed the Victoria Symphony Orchestra to the point where it is ranked among Canada's top four.

Gene Tierney Granted Divorce Second Time

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Feb. 29 (AP).—Gene Tierney, the film star, told the judge Thursday that in 10 years of marriage her husband didn't give her or the children a dime for support. Miss Tierney, 31, won an uncontested divorce from Olg Cassini, 40, New York dress designer. She accused him of mental cruelty. They were divorced in 1947, but reconciled later that year.

Education Week Invites Public's Study and Help

Education Week, to be observed throughout Canada March 2-8 inclusive, will be officially introduced Saturday night by the Greater Victoria Parent-Teacher Council on its regular 15-minute program on CJVI at 8.15.

First speaker will be Mayor Claude Harrison. He will be followed by William Reid, president of Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, sponsor of Education Week here; Dick Reeve, chairman of Greater Victoria School Board, and Mrs. J. Moutray, first vice-president of the Parent-Teacher Council.

The group of 27 young men and women from the Nelson district of B.C. are on a goodwill tour of Washington and Oregon. All speak English, but they sing their hymns in Russian.

"They were not refused permission to sing," said Harold D. Van Eaton, who is in charge of state buildings. "They just never received permission."

"We're disappointed," said Emmett Guley, a representative of the American friends' service committee which is sponsoring the tour.

chairman of the council, will have charge of the program.

The public will have every opportunity to participate in Education Week observances. Many clubs and societies will devote their programs for that week to education subjects, and several schools will hold "open house" for parents and others.

Purpose of the week is to encourage residents to examine the education system and help in its development. Educators say that criticism by parents, ratepayers and teachers, if sincere and based on accurate information, can make a valuable contribution to schools and teaching methods.

Germans Will Return To Heligoland Island

BONN, Germany, Feb. 29 (AP).—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, in a radio address Thursday night, hailed imminent return of Heligoland Island to Germany as a happy event and good omen for future British-German relations. The rocky isle in the North Sea, a wartime Nazi U-boat base, will be given back to its former inhabitants Saturday. It had been closed to Germans since the war.

Again THE CHALLENGE

This year again the Red Cross Appeal presents us with a challenge... and an opportunity. Wherever our deepest sympathies lie... with the victims of disaster, of war or accident... there the Red Cross is working on our behalf. As the need to alleviate suffering grows, the generosity of Canadians grows too. But today the task is almost beyond measure. New victims of war wounds, greater need of lifesaving blood transfusion services, the inevitability of great disasters of fire and flood... all must find the Red Cross ready. There is the challenge. The opportunity to help is before you.

School Children Give Smart P.T. Exhibition

How times change!

These days it looks like fun.

Greater Victoria branch of the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation sponsored a display by classes of district schools in Victoria High School gymnasium Thursday night that was pure enjoyment for the wee duffers of six up to the young adults of grade 12.

The little tots learn rhythm by skipping around in circles imitating ducks, elephants and giants. In junior high students march together in intricate patterns, and in the senior grades they do square dances.

Girls of S. J. Willis Junior High School, wearing beanies, yellow T-shirts, white skirts, and each carrying a baton, staged a brilliant (and to these tired old eyes—most fetching) display of marching, and boys and girls of Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Mt. View High Schools wound up the two-hour program with an exhibition of square dancing.

Another clever turn was a "progression in ball handling skills," starting from the beginning in Grade II to the finished product in Grade XII.

Little boys and girls from George Jay bounced the ball, and dribbled from one end of the floor to the other.

The next stage, that of group games, was illustrated by Grade V from View Royal. Boys from S. J. Willis showed that by Grade VIII they were proficient in running, passing and shooting with a basketball, and "tops" was reached by Victoria High Totems who played a two-minute exhibition game of basketball.

Jack Fouracre of S. J. Willis School put a huge number of boys through a mass demonstration of pyramid building, and senior girls from St. Margaret's put on a dazzling vaulting show.

The program showed graphically the children's steps through physical education.

SATURDAY OFFICIAL DEADLINE

Williams, Kiner Head Major League Holdouts

NEW YORK, Feb. 29 (AP).—

Ted Williams and Ralph Kiner head a small but impressive list of major league baseball stars who have not signed their 1952 contracts.

An Associated Press survey today revealed that 29 players—

17 in the American League and 12 in the National—have not come to terms.

The majority will be classified as "holdouts" if they fail to sign by Saturday, the official start of spring training.

Five National League clubs, the champion New York Giants, the St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds, Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers, have all of their players in the fold. Only the Chicago White Sox in the American can make the same boast.

Williams, one of four Red Sox dickerers for terms, is scheduled to appear at the Sox's Sarasota base Saturday for a conference with general manager Joe Cronin.

Infielders Billy Goodman, Johnny Pesky and pitcher Mel Parnell are the other recalcitrant Red Sox. Goodman is asking $25,000, Pesky $22,500 and Parnell $20,000.

Kiner is scheduled to show up at the Pirates' base at San Bernardino, Calif., Monday, for a conference with Pittsburgh president John Galbreath.

The Pirate star reportedly is aiming for a two-year contract at $70,000 per season, an increase of $5,000 over his 1950-51 salary.

The Philadelphia Athletics have four players remaining to be satisfied but only shortstop Eddie Joost and first baseman Ferris Fain, the American League batting champion, may prove difficult to please.

Shortstop Phil Rizzuto and third baseman Bobby Brown are the lone members of the world champion New York Yankees who haven't signed.

Maxim May Meet Cockell

NEW YORK, Feb. 29 (AP).—Jack Solomons, British fight promoter, said Thursday night he had light-heavyweight Joe Maxim under contract for a fight.

Maxim's manager, Jack Kearns, confirmed the agreement.

Solomons said he wanted to put on a title fight between Don Cockell of England, European light-heavyweight champion, and Maxim before the former was whipped by Jimmy Slade recently.

"However," said Solomons, "I plan to send Cockell in against someone in April, and if Don makes a good showing, I'll arrange a fight against Maxim for him during the summer."

Solomons leaves for England today.

Ball Club Ordered To Pay City Debt

Three-Month Time Limit Mentioned

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Victoria Baseball and Athletic Co. must pay its $4,821 bill to the city in full in "a reasonable length of time."

That was the six-two verdict brought down by City Council meeting Thursday night, at the end of a four-hour session.

While deadline for payment was left up to the city solicitor, three months was mentioned during a talkfest in which Ald. Don Smith said if the city reduced the ball bill it would be duty bound to give the same amount to amateur sports and the Symphony Society.

Ald. Waldo Skillings moved the resolution which refused the club's request for reduction of the bill and extension of the unpaid balance, after an hour-long debate.

STOCKHOLDERS DECLINE

Ald. Jim Neely and Ald. Percy Scurrah both had their say but when it came to voting had to step outside the aldermanic rail, as they are stockholders in the baseball club.

Voting for the motion were the mayor and Aldermen Skillings, Margaret Christie, William Pinfold, Robert Macmillan, Don Smith. Voting against were Ald. Brent Murdoch who wanted "more facts" and Ald. Frank Mulliner, who contended a club delegation should be heard before action was taken.

TUT! TUT!

While none favored reducing the debt majority agreed with the city to kick someone when he's down.

"There's going to be baseball this summer," he said. "They'll comply with demand for payment. Until they get notice from the city there is no broken contract."

The mayor said the city was bound by the lease with the ball company, so long as they made good their arrears in reasonable time.

City Art Collectors Help Meet Emergency

The Arts Centre on Moss St. is fortunate to be able to call in an emergency on public spirited citizens who have made collections of pictures and other art objects.

The current emergency was the failure of a scheduled exhibition to arrive on time. Curator Colin Graham knew that the Maclean's covers originals, due to go up last week, would appear eventually, but he hadn't a clue as to just when.

So he looked around and turned up a unique collection of silk-screen productions owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Di Castri. Through their courtesy these now grace two rooms of the gallery and form an interesting study, apart from their colorful picturesqueness.

They were prepared by Professor Jacobson of the University of Oklahoma, a leading authority on the Indian culture of the American southwest.

One group of paintings of native costumes was made from life. The second group consists of reproductions of paintings by the Indians themselves. These represent incidents in the lives of present-day Indians. A fusion of occidental methods of drawing and Indian feeling for color and form is noticeable.

A tin mask from Oaxaco, Mexico; a rug made by the Navajos of New Mexico and Arizona, and a Katchina doll made by the Hopi Indians of New Mexico are included in the exhibit.

The prints are rich and bold in color, formalized as to design and highly symbolized. Aside from the purely costume studies, there are vivid illustrations of ceremonial and custom.

Many of the dancing figures are instinct with life. Anyone who saw our Cowichan Indian drama of "Tlingit" will be reminded of the dress and the dancing that was so spectacular a part of that production.

Allan M. Davies was elected the 1952-53 president of public service branch 127, Canadian Legion, at a meeting Wednesday. Mr. Davies succeeds P. G. Barr. The new executive elected includes J. H. Taylor, vice-president; D. R. Monk, secretary-treasurer; and members J. Sargent, D. Sutherland, W. Tutill, R. Parsons and D. Little.

Merry Mayhem

Jerry Lewis (left) plays a bungling boot and partner Dean Martin (right) is a girl-chasing glib in Hal Wallis' "Sailor Beware," now at the Capitol Theatre. Singing, sparkling and the kind of merry mayhem that has become the pair's trade mark punctuate this laugh-packed Paramount release.

New System Being Used In B.C. Mineral Quest

A new and interesting development in mineral exploitation is being used with apparent success in the Phoenix area of British Columbia, according to Rupert Hagen, M.L.A., who is in Victoria for the Legislature session.

Hagen reports that a company is using a system of testing the sap of trees to determine if there is any worthwhile mineral in the ground below. Experiments in several parts of the continent have shown that the sap of trees carries appreciable portions of copper and zinc where these minerals occur in lodes.

"While there are a number of unknown factors involved, a general scale has been adopted wherein an assay of the sap showing over a certain percentage of either mineral is taken as indicating whether exploration with diamond drilling is justified," the Grand Forks Greenwood member explained.

At Phoenix, hundreds of assays have been made and the results plotted on a map, Hagen reported. He said the tests indicate a "body of enrichment" somewhat similar in size and shape to the Phoenix mine, which produced 20,000,000 tons of ore during its history.

"Whether a new mine has been found only time will tell," said Hagen.

Diamond drilling has been carried on all winter and is still progressing, he said.

Bill Giving Manitoba Women Right To Sit On Juries Gets Last Reading

By the Canadian Press
The legislature at Winnipeg Thursday gave final reading to a bill to give women the right to sit on juries. Any woman can be excused if she applies to the sheriff within three days after receiving notice.

NOVA SCOTIA

The recent teachers' strike in Cape Breton came under discussion in the Nova Scotia legislature. E. W. Urquhart, a Liberal and a former school teacher, said the teachers were in the wrong in striking for higher pay. He supported the government's stand that it already pays its share of education costs and any increases should come from municipalities.

ONTARIO

Ontario's Premier Leslie Frost said in Throne Speech debate at Toronto he hopes legislation will never be necessary to provide for compulsory arbitration of labor disputes. He reaffirmed the government's policy of relying on labor-management bargaining and government conciliation in settling disputes.

Frost also introduced a bill to ratify Ontario's agreement to share with the federal government the cost of construction of the St. Lawrence hydro development.

ALBERTA

The Alberta legislature defeated a C.C.F. motion that a special committee be named to inquire into "all conditions" of the Alberta liquor control board concerning the sale of alcoholic beverages, including beer, and all premises which now or in the future may be licensed for such sales.

SASKATCHEWAN

G. Herman Danielson, chief financial critic for the Liberal opposition in the Saskatchewan legislature, opened budget debate at Regina by describing a two-mill provincial public revenue tax as a levy on real property and one that belonged to the municipalities. The government proposes to distribute all the proceeds of the tax as increased educational grants.

Also in the Saskatchewan house, R. J. Beltley announced that the provincial hospital services plan spent a record $13,708,089 last year. He said the figure was a preliminary estimate that might be increased by retroactive hospital-rate changes made after the end of 1951.

EARLY PREVENTION

12-YEAR-OLD PILFERS BABY BONUS CHEQUE

EDMONTON, Feb. 29 (CP)—A 12-year-old mailman-in-reverse was caught Thursday when he made the mistake of calmly returning some of his "mail."

The boy was stopped on the street by a housewife who suspected him of rifling her mailbox of a baby bonus cheque.

"The woman said the boy reached into his pocket, took out several such cheques and leafed through them."

"Here's yours," he said in a businesslike fashion, handing her the missing cheque. Police said the boy was able to cash one of the cheques before he was caught. He will be charged with theft in juvenile court.

WEALTHY AREA

Heavy Weapon Production Agreed To By West Germans

BONN, Germany, Feb. 29 (AP)—The West German government has accepted a proposal by the western Big Three powers to produce certain types of heavy weapons for Atlantic defense.

But production of guided missiles, poison gas and atomic bombs will be banned, a high German official said Thursday.

This was the compromise proposal forwarded to the Germans by the western foreign ministers from Lisbon Tuesday in an effort to settle the question of linking Germany's industrial machine to the Atlantic arms build-up, this source said.

FROM BREWING TO TILE

Delft, Holland, was helped in its transformation from a brewing centre to Europe's tile capital by a disastrous fire. Tile makers selected sites of Delft's razed breweries, in the 18th century, for the plants that later produced world-famous Delft tile.

HUGE JIG-SAW

LULLINGSTONE, Eng. (CP)—Archaeologists excavating a Roman villa here unearthed 7,000 shattered pieces of murals believed to have decorated the home of a Roman official. Besides being broken, the pieces are discolored by fire.

He's Going After Trout

Surrounded by almost every thing that is a potential fish-catcher, Tommy Rickinson, well-known Victoria sports fisherman, is ready for opening assault on trout offerings in lake and stream this week-end. General trout season on the Island opens Saturday.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

British Columbia shipped 120,000 tons of iron ore to Japan during 1951, Mines Minister John Cates reported Thursday.

He was replying to questions asked in the Legislature by Capt. D. J. Proudfoot (Govt.-Victoria).

Asked if there are any restrictions on such exports, the minister said the province has no control over them, and there are "no known federal restrictions."

Five local artists will be heard at the music hour in the Mural Room of the Y.M.C.A. Sunday evening at 9.

Mrs. J. C. Hilton, contralto in the Georgian Society, will sing a number of songs along with soprano Mrs. Arthur Jackman and Arthur Jackman, bass.

They will be accompanied by Miss Linda Barker on the piano. Mrs. W. H. Thomson will play the violin.

Target launching date for the first of three new-type minesweepers being built in Victoria has been set for the end of April, according to Capt. Cecil L. Hinchliffe, R.C.N.'s principal overseer of new ship construction, west coast.

The ship, which has keel and ribs of aluminum, is at V.M.D.'s Bay Street yard. A similar ship is on the ways at Yarrow, and keel for a third will be laid by V.M.D. as soon as the first is launched.

Members of the Legislature probably are having salmon for supper tonight.

As they took their places in the House this afternoon each found a can of top quality sockeye salmon on his desk—compliments of Jack McRae (Govt., Prince Rupert).

The young member was the first speaker of the afternoon, sitting and left no doubts of the importance of the fishing industry to his riding.

Planning for recreation, parks, industry and agriculture will be discussed by members of the B.C. Division of the Community Planning Association of Canada who are meeting here for a two-day meeting at the Empress Hotel on March 13 and 14. The conference will be open to the public.

The first Citizens' Hour to be held by Mayor Claude Harrison at Loughheed's Banquet Club tonight at 8, will become a permanent feature, if the people desire it.

The mayor said he would ask the representatives of about 150 organizations who have been invited, if they favor the idea and how often they would like the Citizens' Hour to be held.

A $100 fine was imposed against motorist Charles G. Scott, 447 Arnold, by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today for careless driving.

Scott was involved in a recent two-car collision in which four persons received minor nicks and there was $1,400 vehicle damage.

A 5-cent bus fare was urged by Mrs. P. Chappell, president of No. 5 Old Age Pensioners' Organization in a letter to the City Council today.

She said any increases in bus fares would be a hardship on pensioners and termed a 10-cent fare "a luxury."

Bob Smeal, president of the Victoria Labor Council (C.C.L.) pointed out that one feature of the Workmen's Compensation Report which disturbed him made provision for a $75-a-month pension for widows of workers who will be killed on the job in future, but keeps present widows at the $50 maximum level.

"That's most unfair—a terrible thing," Smeal commented. "There are 1,500 widows in this province trying to make do on the $50 a month allowance. I don't know how they do it. But certainly, they should be entitled to $75, too. Even that is little enough."

Chief Justice Gordon McSloan, in his report on Workmen's Compensation, acknowledged that widows, crippled workmen and dependents were in a sorry financial plight and deserved an increase, but held it would be wrong to make increased compensation rates retroactive to cover these people. He said such a recommendation would mean industries now operating would be forced to bear part of the burden of past accidents.

BONUS FAVORED He indicated that he would favor the government making a special cost-of-living grant to assist widow and pensioner now in receipt of allowances and compensation based on earlier awards.

The chief justice pointed out, however, he could not incorporate this into his other recommendations since it was a matter of government policy "not within my direction."

C. A. Peck, immediate past president of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (T.L.C.), said he had considered major parts of the reports and was of the opinion the government was making a grave mistake not implementing recommendations right away.

"Most of the recommendations are long overdue," he contended. Ed Haw, secretary-treasurer of the T.L.C. council, agreed that legislation should be enacted without delay.

GOVERNMENT'S JOB "These recommendations were brought in by committees set-up by the present government. It's up to the present government to deal with them," he said.

He thought many of the recommendations would be beneficial to the people of the province. He approved of suggestions put forward by members of the L.C.A. Act Committee, particularly those contained in minority reports.

Percy Rayment, secretary-treasurer of the T.L.C. council, said he wanted more time to study the recommendations before offering an opinion as to their worth.

Years later, he thought he would do something with the knowledge he had gained of these adventures and, being a wood carver, chose to put these stories on wood.

Working in his spare time for three months from a painting by J. D. Kelly, Neilsen completed a magnificent carving on natural B.C. white pine of a scene showing a sea battle in Hudson's Bay in 1697 between one French and three British ships.

The carving is so detailed that it nearly comes to life—one can almost count the individual strands of rope on the ship and the lines on the faces of the seamen.

Neilsen says the carving is the first of 36 historical panels depicting the colorful events of the Hudson's Bay Company. He estimates it will be 12 years before his task is completed—then he plans to take them on a cross-country exhibit.

He starts his chore by making a free-hand sketch of the original painting, then transferring the drawing to wood.

The strain on his eyes is terrific.

"I like to go out and work in the garden afterward," he says. "It's the best way I know to rest my eyes."

Not content with carving panels, Neilsen also turns out beautiful lamps, tables and other furniture, using B.C. wood because "I want to depict British Columbia in everything I make."

A world-traveler (three times around), the Dane says: "I have never seen anything like B.C. before in all my travels."

He left the Neilsen trademark at British Columbia's Manning Park where he turned out some of his work while employed with the provincial government parks' division.

But closest to his heart right now is the completion of the 36 historical panels.

Kaj Neilsen's spare-time hobby is almost a life-time work.

City Faces Sharp Rise For Police

Budget Up $40,000 Without Wage Boost

Due to the rise in the cost of essential supplies and union requests for increased salaries, it is going to cost the city considerably more this year for the operation of the Victoria Police Department.

This was clearly indicated in the 1952 estimates placed before Victoria Police Commissioners today.

The budget asked by Chief of Police John Blackstock totals $401,661—a $40,000 increase—but that does not take into consideration what the police union may receive from arbitration on a new salary scale. The policemen are asking a raise to meet ever-rising cost of living.

BUILDING INCLUDED The 1951 estimates for the department totaled $360,611. That included the construction of new detective branch offices at a cost of $11,000. While court costs were eliminated from the budget last year, they have been added to the 1952 budget—and that means an additional $18,826.

Salaries on the 1951 schedule amounted to $310,625. The department is asking for $29,000 for general administration this year. Charge of "protective services" has been estimated at $280,315—but the result of wage demands may boost that figure.

Under the heading of "crime investigation," the police are asking for $41,620.

Osmund Matson was appointed to the Board of Governors of the Victoria Division of the Canadian Corps of Commissioners at a recent meeting of the board.

Major William Matson, M.C., D.C.M., will continue to serve in the capacity of honorary commandant of the corps.

The Victoria division now has 203 commissioners, 174 of whom are in permanent employment.

New-design lumber carrier here on first voyage.

FIRST IN WORLD

Norwegians' Masterpiece Loading Here

A new and unusual ship—the first of her design in the world—is loading 750,000 feet of lumber at Ogden Point today.

Ss. Aquila was designed and built in Norway especially as a timber and lumber carrier. On this, her maiden voyage, she took lumber to Australia, then came up to B.C. in ballast, to take lumber for Scotland.

Her builders, Kristiansand Shipyard of that Norwegian port, apparently designed her cargo space first, then built a hull around it, and put on superstructure where needed—and nowhere else. The result is a remarkable simplicity of line and efficient use of stowage space.

She is of the 13-hull form (forecastle and after-castle) with her machinery well aft. Her lifting machinery is housed in a small deck structure amidships which, at a distance, would look as though she had a mid-castle.

Her single well deck runs about two-thirds of the length of the ship, from fore-castle to after-castle, and her four holds can be interconnected if the cargo requires it. Cargo space extends the full width of the ship in each hold.

Aquila has two sets of "football" kingposts, fore and aft, and two masts; one above the forward castle, and one amidships. Two very tall ventilators above the forward superstructure look, from a distance, like another "football" set.

The most surprising thing about Aquila is her size-to-capacity ratio. She's only 3,600 tons, yet can carry 5,000 tons of cargo. She is a deceptively slim ship, looks fragile as a yacht, yet her officers say she's a very good sea boat.

Her owners are Aino Skips A/S, Norway, and her master, Captain S. Flack. King Bros. Ltd. are agents.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME APRIL 26 TO SEPT. 27

Victoria City Council moved Thursday night for daylight saving from midnight April 26 to midnight Sept. 27.

It agreed with the Railway Association of Canada that fast time should coincide with the railways' spring and summer train schedules.

There was considerable discussion on the question. Mayor Claude Harrison said he would like a referendum at the next civic election to determine how the people felt on setting their clocks an hour ahead during the summer months.

Vigorous opposition to daylight saving was voiced by Ald. Frank Mulliner who said it caused "inconvenience and misery."

Provincial government will be notified of the majority council approval of the plan.

Nechako Timber Cut Demanded

Huge Area To Be Flooded By Alcan Project Would Be Ruined, Resources Parley Hears

A resolution calling on the government to clear timber from land to be flooded by the Alcan Nechako Dam, was submitted to the natural resources convention at the Empress Hotel today.

Resolutions chairman Dr. I. McTaggart Cowan, department of zoology, U.B.C., said unless action was taken soon, 175 square miles of timber would be flooded by the aluminum company dam.

The flooded timber lands would ruin the area as a tourist attraction, he said. The timber would also prevent seaplanes from landing.

"The government should clear the area at all costs," he said. "It was pointed out that in the United States power companies are obliged to clear the timber before flooding."

INACTION DEPLORED Dr. H. V. Warren, department of geology and geography, U.B.C., deplored the lack of action to develop what he described as "the greatest iron resources in the world" situated in British Columbia.

He also urged the development of the Morgan damsite on the Fraser River, claiming it could be done without much damage to the fishing industry.

The conference, which ends today, saw one of the liveliest discussions late Thursday arise out of the proposed Canadian-U.S. Japanese fishing treaty instigated in Tokyo on Dec. 13, 1951.

The discussion followed the submission of a paper on the international control of off-shore fisheries prepared by Stewart Bates, federal deputy minister of fisheries.

TREATY TERMS OPPOSED Fishermen union officials attending the meeting immediately took issue with the treaty and the views expressed in the paper.

R. Payne, president of the United Fish Workers, charged that the conference was only being given the government's views on the controversial subject.

"We haven't been asked to express our views," he said. "There are 8,000 fishermen in B.C., but we were not invited to the Tokyo talks," he said.

A. H. Sager, executive assistant, Fisheries Association of B.C., acting as mediator for the discussion, got entangled in a dispute with Payne.

"This subject burns me up," he said. "The union is being unfair in charging this conference with only presenting the views of one side."

He said at a recent meeting called by the union at New Westminster, union officials there had not given anyone a chance to explain the government's views on the treaty.

Courtenay Haddock, manager of Woodward's store here, will be guest speaker at the Gyro Club meeting Monday at the Empress Hotel.

Duncan To Staff Aid Post Here

A Duncan medical crew has agreed to staff a first aid station here in the event of a civil defense emergency.

Defense co-ordinator Leonard Hatcher said today the plan to send a staff from the Duncan Hospital was the result of a meeting between Island defense co-ordinators at Duncan Thursday.

Three members of Victoria's civil defense organization will attend a "radical" monitoring course at the University of British Columbia April 21.

Little Girl Road Victim

Darleen Corbett Reported In 'Very Poor' Condition

A three-year-old Saanich girl was seriously injured today in a Burnside Road traffic accident.

Darleen Corbett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Corbett, 3230 Albion, was reported in "very poor" condition at Jubilee Hospital at press time.

She was knocked down by a truck on Burnside Road West at 10:15 while crossing the artery with her five-year-old brother.

The tot suffered undetermined head injuries and a broken leg. Her brother escaped injury.

Saanich police rushed the child to hospital.

Truck reportedly was driven by Frank Boyd, Newbury Avenue.

The accident was between Harriet and Davin, part way down the block.

The lone crewman aboard a sinking tugboat was rescued by the Victoria fishing vessel William C. Todd near Fraser River lightship when the tug dived under this morning.

The fishboat, owned by J. H. Todd & Sons, first went to the aid of the tug when it reported it was sinking at 2:30, about halfway between Point Grey and Gabriola Island in Georgia Strait.

The tug, the Little D, abandoned its tow of logs and took a line from William C. Todd.

When the two ships reached the Fraser River Lightship, a second line was taken aboard the lightship, but the tug nosed under minutes later. Her crewman was hauled to safety aboard the fishing vessel.

City Health Budget Down

Union Board of Health estimates this year total $103,257 compared with expenditures in 1951 of $104,530.

The board meeting today was advised the estimates were down because operation and maintenance of the new health and welfare building, of close to $12,000, will be charged to building department estimates.

SOOKE WATERSHED LOGGING APPROVED

Island Foresters Unanimously Support Sustained Yield Plan; Opposition Heard

Greater Victoria Water District's sustained yield cutting policy for Sooke Lake and Goldstream watershed has full support of foresters.

About 70 foresters attending a meeting of the Vancouver Island section of the Canadian Institute of Forestry in the Douglas Building unanimously approved the policy Thursday night.

Both sides of the controversial question were given.

Don Smith, forester for the water district, outlined the forest management plan, and Gordon Sword, president of South Vancouver Island Foresters, expressed his group's opposition to cutting on the watershed.

Water Commissioner Ralph Davis and H. J. Hodgins, consulting engineer, also spoke.

In giving a resume of the water board's basic policy Smith stated: "Our management plan merely proposed application of sound economics and the ultimate in multiple land use, so as to protect both quantity and quality of domestic municipal water supply, simultaneously with the conservation and use of the present and potential timber resources of the area."

REAL CONSERVATION "Such a plan is in accord with the true and accepted definition of conservation which means full use and management of a resource and not the preservation or 'closed door' policy so erroneously associated with this term."

Smith stated successful management of a watershed can only rest upon a carefully defined policy and program which will place control upon a permanent administrative basis.

"Changing municipal administrations must be prevented from modifying the control procedures for one expediency or another as time goes on," Smith said.

POLICY NEEDED To accomplish this aim, he said the water district "must develop with the utmost care a statement of policy and program which can be translated legally into an effective administrative procedure, not easily disturbed in subsequent years."

"If such a plan is consummated, people of Greater Victoria may look forward to an intelligent and logical program to perpetuity, which would preserve the water supply values of Sooke Lake and Goldstream watershed to the utmost," Smith stated.

"At the same time, it would mean maximum beneficial use of the resources which now cover our watershed."

"Your political machines are not going to help you at this election. There has been a shameful betrayal of the people. Many important matters should have been discussed at this session, but because of the political differences of two men the country has to wait for needed changes in the labor law, hospital insurance and workmen's compensation," he declared.

"I like to go out and work in the garden afterward," he says. "It's the best way I know to rest my eyes."

Not content with carving panels, Neilsen also turns out beautiful lamps, tables and other furniture, using B.C. wood because "I want to depict British Columbia in everything I make."

A world-traveler (three times around), the Dane says: "I have never seen anything like B.C. before in all my travels."

City Council Thursday night approved payment of damages. Ald. Waldo Skillings commented:

"We'd better be careful we don't do any work near the liquor store."

LEADERS BLAMED

Legislature Wastes Time Harding Says

Because of a quarrel between two men, the people of British Columbia, for several months will have to do without legislation they need and want, Randolph Harding (C.C.F., Kaslo-Slocan), said in the legislature Thursday night.

Harding said the speech from the Throne was disappointing because "too much was missing."

"It showed up a weak stand by a hesitant lot of legislators," he declared.

"You people were elected to legislate. What a bunch of lawmakers you turned out to be. It's been a waste of taxpayers' money to have everyone come to Victoria and do nothing. You have failed the electors back home."

The C.C.F. member claimed the Liberal and Progressive Conservative association executive members throughout B.C. are "just as fed up as the man in the street."

"Your political machines are not going to help you at this election. There has been a shameful betrayal of the people. Many important matters should have been discussed at this session, but because of the political differences of two men the country has to wait for needed changes in the labor law, hospital insurance and workmen's compensation," he declared.

Artist To Take 12 Years To Carve Canadian Epic In Wood

By RON BAIRD A Langford cabinet maker will devote his spare time in the next 12 years to creating on wood the history of a fabulous Canadian era.

Copenhagen-born Kaj Neilsen of 115 Granger Road came to Canada 25 years ago and brought with him an earnest desire to study the history of his new home. He finally decided that the Hudson's Bay Company and its explorers provided "the most colorful history in Canada."

Years later, he thought he would do something with the knowledge he had gained of these adventures and, being a wood carver, chose to put these stories on wood.

Working in his spare time for three months from a painting by J. D. Kelly, Neilsen completed a magnificent carving on natural B.C. white pine of a scene showing a sea battle in Hudson's Bay in 1697 between one French and three British ships.

The carving is so detailed that it nearly comes to life—one can almost count the individual strands of rope on the ship and the lines on the faces of the seamen.

Neilsen says the carving is the first of 36 historical panels depicting the colorful events of the Hudson's Bay Company. He estimates it will be 12 years before his task is completed—then he plans to take them on a cross-country exhibit.

He starts his chore by making a free-hand sketch of the original painting, then transferring the drawing to wood.

Rolls Of Copper Waiting To Be Made Into Pictures

By PENNY SAVER

You've had to wait a long time, but copper by the yard is here at last.

There are numerous uses for it, but probably the most popular are the pictures you can make by pressing a design in the copper and then painting it if you wish.

They are really effective and cost next to nothing to make. The copper is 30 pennies a foot and measures about the same in width. You don't even have to face the cost of having the picture framed when you have finished it if you don't want to. Just buy a roll of colored passe-partout and you have the finished product.

Copper comes into the limelight again. This time in the form of an elegant wood basket priced at $14.95.

Don't think that the price is too high. You are more than getting your money's worth. The copper wood basket is all hand beaten and as well as serving a purpose by holding the wood for your fireplace would be an attractive addition to the decorations in your room.

Crochet Touched With Plaid

Ever-popular crochet is amazingly smart when matched with plaid. Saw this done with a pair of crochet gloves touched with a plaid cuff.

And that's not all. These novel gloves can be matched with a crocheted hat and little pouch purse. They come in every color imaginable and if you can't find just what you want in their present stock you can have a set made to order.

The gloves are $1.95 and purses are $2.95.

Have you seen them? Wicker lunch baskets that can be used as purses? Gee! Are they ever smart. You may have noticed some of the young girls carrying them last spring and summer and wondered whether you could buy them in Victoria. You can. And for only $2.50. They are oblong and completely made of wicker. Who knows, you may even want to use it for the purpose it is intended—a lunch basket.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

25-Year-Old Girl's Life Ruined By Hair On Lip

Q.—"Ever since I was teenage I have had a growth of dark hair on my upper lip. This may sound queer to you but it has really about spoiled my life. When I meet people I am so self-conscious that I cannot be myself and think I am distant or disinterested. I am now 25 and I suppose I should have more poise, but I always think that people are looking at this moustache on my upper lip. Peroxide is not enough."

A.—Suffer no more. It is a shame to sabotage happiness when you can do something about your trouble. See a competent electrolysis and have the hair permanently removed.

Q.—"I do not see why my waist is so thick. I am 12 and I am not overweight. In fact, I am a little underweight, but I am straight up and down and my measurements are not what they should be. Can you tell me why? I wonder what kind of a woman I will look like when I am grown?"

A.—Do not worry. Young girls' age are always out of proportion in this way. Just give yourself a few years and you will slim down through the region of the waist.

Q.—"I don't know why I am not popular. I am 14 but the boys pay no attention to me. I am good looking, everyone says, and I am not fat. I just try and try and try."

A.—Perhaps that is the answer you try too hard. Men like women who make them feel comfortable. I do not mean to underestimate the power of flattery. Part of making them feel comfortable is to let them know that you find them attractive, but be natural and friendly and gay and don't scare them to death. Young men your age are quite timid usually even though they try to pretend otherwise.

Q.—"How long will I have to do the exercise of rising high on my toes and then lowering heels in order to increase the size of the calf of my leg?"

A.—It depends on how regularly you do it and how many times a day you do the exercise. In this case you are really building muscle. Start with 10 times morning and night and build up until you are doing the exercise 30 times morning and night. You should begin to see a difference in a few weeks, four anyway.

Hand-Weaving Group Hears About Trip

Miss Vera Knevit showed pictures of her recent trip to England, Norway and Sweden at the recent meeting of Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild. The speaker saw hand weaving at several places she visited and told members that it is used for home decorating and in public buildings in Sweden and Norway.

Mrs. H. R. Clark, exhibition convener, reported that Shuttlecraft Traveling Exhibit from Virginia City, Mont., will be on display in Eaton's furniture building for one week, beginning March 10. Study groups under convener of Mrs. Sydney Pickles will study the crackle weave, with lessons from Miss Marjorie Hill.

Mrs. Hazel Hodson, president, congratulated Miss Hill on being awarded the Master Weaver diploma from the Shuttlecraft Guild on completion of the advanced weaving course.

So—before you pack your bags—call on the BoM and put your money into Travellers Cheques... for a truly Bon Voyage!

At Last! Here's a rayon shirt he'll be proud to wear... the new BVD N.Y.O.N. SHIRT!

It's made of rayon tricort... something brand new in shirting material, it's attractive and comfortable in all kinds of weather. And the fused collar and cuffs of these BVD shirts never wilt—they stay good-looking for the life of the shirt without ironing. In fact, you never iron this easy-to-care-for shirt... laundering is a breeze! You'll save the price of the shirt in laundry bills alone! What's more, a BVD Nylon Tricot Shirt will outwear an ordinary shirt several times over. At $12.95 the new BVD Nylon Tricot Shirt—blue, tan, grey or white—is a "bargain" he can't afford to miss!

There's No "Trick" to serving truly tempting Lenten meals... simply make sure you have a good supply of SUNKIST CALIFORNIA LEMON JUICE.

Tangy, fresh Sunkist lemon juice brings out the flavour of fish and makes it so much more delicious. Try this tempting fish dish some evening soon... Jellyed Salmon.

To 2 cups of canned salmon add the juice of 1 Sunkist lemon, 1/2 tsp. salt, dash of red pepper, 1 or 2 sliced, hard-boiled eggs and 1/2 cup green peas. Mix lightly. Boak 1 tsp. gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water and dissolve in 1 3/4 cups hot water. Fold into salmon mixture. Chill in large or small moulds and serve on lettuce. Serves 6.

There's No "Trick" to serving a man during Lent? Then here's a menu that's sure to win his approval! Cream of Mushroom Soup—Frying Hot Buns!

Vegetable Salad and delicious KRAFT DINNER. Yes, "Kraft Dinner" is a real "he-man" dish. In every package of "KRAFT OF NESTLE" is a special, fast-cooking macaroni that cooks to fluffy lightness in only 7 minutes. And, in the same package—cheese, already grated, to sprinkle in for rich cheese flavour. What's more, this nutritious dish costs less than 4¢ a serving—and there are servings for four in every package. One of the handiest main-course dishes I know... "Kraft Dinner" is off the shelf—into the pot—onto the table.

"Most Used" of all my favourite recipes are the exciting dishes I can whip up in a jiffy with HEINZ CONDENSED SOUPS. These are the soups made by soup specialists—so no wonder they "do" things for your meat loaves, pies and rarebits. Try this...

CREAMED DRIED BEEF, MUSHROOMS AND NOODLES

4 oz. dried beef, shredded
2 tablespoons butter or mild flavoured dripping
2 tablespoons flour
1 lb. can Heinz Condensed Chicken Noodle Soup, undiluted
1 lb. can Heinz Condensed Cream of Mushroom Soup, undiluted
1 cup milk
Toast triangles

Route beef in butter. Sprinkle flour over beef. Brown well. Add Chicken Noodle Soup and Mushroom Soup and heat thoroughly. Add milk and mix well. Serve hot over toast triangles or hot biscuits. Serves 6-8.

Ten-Thirty and the house is swept and whistle-clean. Now you're ready for a chat with Mary over a good cup of coffee. Well, I'd like to suggest INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE. Takes just seconds to make (no longer than boiling the water!)... and it's delicious. That's because it's made by the folks who "know their coffee"... it's the only instant coffee backed by over 85 years of coffee experience. The flavour's there—and the real coffee lift. After a cheering cup of Instant Chase & Sanborn, you'll feel like a new woman. Another thing you'll like about this good instant coffee... it's economical. There's no waste. And it's as easy to make ten cups as one—just 75c a tube!

Your Busy Hands DESERVE The Best Of Care. So when they feel dry after using detergents (nice for your china, but not for your hands!)... just treat them to soothing, smoothing JERGENS LOTION. You see, because Jergens is liquid, it quickly supplies the softening moisture that dry, thirsty skin needs. Frankly, I don't know what I'd do without it! I keep a bottle of Jergens handy in both kitchen and bathroom and use it after every watery chore. Then, at day's end, my hands look as if they'd never done a lick of work! I know you'll like Jergens Lotion. Ask for it—just 15c, 37c, 65c and $1.15.

Have You Ever Noticed how things you learned at school suddenly come back to you? Marg said her washing always had a yellow tinge and then she remembered her chemistry teacher telling her that seven colours combine to make white, and one of them is blue. That's why there's no true white without blue. So, of course, the answer to the problem of yellow-looking washings is Blue. Just wash it in the final rinsing and presto!—your sheets, shirts, table linens will fairly sparkle. What's more, Blue is kind to fine fabrics—won't harm them in the least! Costs just a few cents a month, too!

Yes, for the whitest wash, it's RECKITT'S Blue.

Mayor Of Opinion Tender By-Law Needs More Study

Consideration of tenders at open City Council meetings is not only in the interests of the taxpayer but a safeguard for the city manager.

That is the view of Mayor Claude Harrison who returned a new procedure by-law to City Council meeting Thursday night for reconsideration.

Council unanimously referred the by-law to the executive committee.

In report to council, the mayor said the by-law was passed through an "unintentional slip" on his part at the Feb. 8 meeting. It allows the manager to open tenders in the presence of the department head concerned.

"I was, and still am, opposed to this by-law," said the mayor. "I believe all matters of this kind, that affect the public and public purse, should be done openly, which of course means in the open council, in this case."

He asked if such a system was not a safeguard to the manager.

"All of us who have had any real business experience in life must know how often the acceptance of bids have been questioned and challenged," the mayor said.

Well-run private or public companies open bids in presence of directors, he continued, adding that he believes the government takes "similar precautions."

"Why do we want to take a different course? Why expose the manager to, perchance unfavorable comment, yes, even slanderous tongues?"

When the mayor questioned the item at the last council meeting, he said Aid. Waldo Skillings "quite unintentionally" indicated it was handled at a previous executive committee meeting.

Thinking it was another matter, the mayor said he did not deal with it further. He said he realized his error a few minutes after and was now exercising his statutory right to intervene and return the by-law for council to reconsider.

Wismar Delays Naming B.C.'s Chief Coroner

Nothing can be done about appointment of a chief coroner for British Columbia at least until the next session of the Legislature, Attorney-General Gordon Wismar said today.

The attorney-general said the LONDON, Feb. 29 (Reuters).—Viscount Alexander, Britain's new defense minister, and Lady Alexander, the duke of Edinburgh at Clarence House Thursday, the court circular announced.

appointment would require opening up the Coroners' Act, and that isn't contemplated during the present session.

Wismar recently told the south Vancouver Island district of the B.C. Women's Institute that he is contemplating appointment of a chief coroner. He said he favored setting up machinery to secure more uniformity in the treatment of all cases coming before such tribunals.

"But it's not government policy yet," said Wismar. "It's just an idea I have. I believe the whole thing needs reorganizing."

The women's institute had interviewed the attorney-general regarding their protests last fall against alleged conduct of a coroner's inquest at Duncan. The inquest was in connection with the highway death of a son of one of the institute members.

Mayor Won't Allow Confidence Vote For Wyatt

Mayor Claude Harrison ruled out of order a call for a vote of confidence in City Manager Cecil Wyatt Thursday night.

Ald. William Pinfold called for the vote at council following the mayor's seven-page report on relations between himself and the manager over the past two months.

"I don't see how it arises," said the mayor. "It is out of order; not applicable at all."

Interjected Ald. Brent Murdoch: "There is no non-confidence in the manager. We all have confidence in him."

"Certainly," agreed the mayor. Pinfold said voters overwhelmingly favored appointment of a manager and the city hired one in view of recent publicity, he said, a vote of confidence was appropriate.

Referring to the mayor's report which was received and filed, Murdoch said it cleared the air for him, as he had read of "dissension" in the papers but had not had the full story before.

MAYOR'S EXPLANATION

Mayor Claude Harrison insists he has no ill-feeling toward City Manager Cecil Wyatt "whispering or false tongues to the contrary notwithstanding."

Mayor Harrison gave what he termed the "full and true facts" about his relationship with Wyatt in a seven-page report to council. He was answering, he said, "incorrect statements and impressions pertaining to the manager and myself."

The mayor said he had asked Wyatt about the manager's comments regarding discord on the staff over functions of the council's executive committee, but had received no reply.

At the outset of his term in office, the mayor said he told Wyatt if he did his work well that was all that was expected.

Harrison stated the city solicitor advised he was completely within his rights to create the executive committee and assign to it functions regarding staff matters.

At the time the manager had suggested the committee functions contravened his by-law: "They will create a certain amount of discord . . . in the city service . . ."

REFERENCES NOT UNDERSTOOD

Said the mayor: "On Feb. 18 I wrote the manager, requesting an explanation and particulars. To this I received no reply. I cannot understand references to the so-called discord."

Referring to events which led to the recent probe of the public works department, Mayor Harrison said an experienced alderman ("I think it was Ald. Pinfold") mentioned a rumor about overstaffing. The mayor said he had heard it also and asked the manager for a report.

He wanted the matter cleared up before wage requests come in, he said. He felt it would be unfair should raises be granted and then a staff cut found necessary.

"It would look as if we were cutting the staff because we had to give such a general raise, which of course would not be the truth."

NOT OVERSTAFFED

The mayor said the manager expressed satisfaction with reports from department heads that they were not overstuffed and everything was all right.

"I asked his attitude if any of this information given by any of the department heads should prove erroneous, to which he replied to the effect that if it were intentional, then such head should be dismissed," the mayor recounted. "I agreed in principle."

The mayor said the matter ended then until Ald. Percy Scudrah referred to certain street work—"it was quite clear some bad mistake had been made"—and a committee was struck to go into the works department by the executive committee.

At an executive meeting, the manager had referred to the mayor's suggesting to a public works official that a man be given a job. The mayor said the man in question was hungry and he suggested temporary help.

SOLICITOR'S ADVICE

"The solicitor has advised me I had a perfectly legal right to have acted as I did and that at the same time, I did not interfere with the manager, his contract or by-law," said the mayor. "He added that several days before the manager's recent illness he related all the facts, together with the solicitor's advice, and stated in fairness to him, I would give him the opportunity of correcting the matter himself and I mentioned that I expected to hear from him.

"I received no reply, nor yet have I received one, thereupon I am now relating the whole matter to you. It is a matter of principle and I feel you should all know the truth about the matter."

The mayor then went fully into question of the mayor's fund and payment of the manager's Union Club dues stating: "It shows how irregular some matters have been handled in the past by experienced persons."

"Having given you all the facts I now feel sure you will realize it was not your mayor that was acting unfairly towards anyone in any respect," concluded Mayor Harrison. "It is just the reverse, all the false propaganda to the contrary notwithstanding."
